CUT

1. Note the pairs of double lines. The dotted line indicates the up orientation for writing. On the dotted line of the double lines, fill in the letters of the alphabet. It doesn't matter where you start, nor does the order in which you place the letters. You may want to rotate your paper to write each letter on the dotted side of the double lines in the correct orientation.

2. Use markers to trace the numbered lines. Use a different color for each numbered line; make sure the lines with the same number are the same color.

3. After you've added all the letters of the alphabet and traced the numbered lines, cut along the line that says CUT and begin folding the paper as directed.
